GOOD VAUDEVILLE

Will Be Presented at the Colosseum This Afternoon and Tonight.

The vaudeville bill at the Colosseum this afternoon and tonight will be the greatest ever produced in this city and one that many large cities would be glad to have for their patrons. The headline act is Edward Dunhorst, who plays a sketch for 20 minutes called "Baby Buster." Dunhorst, who tips the scales at close to 600 pounds, plays the "Baby Buster." Smith and Walton are high-class singers, and the lady end of the team has one of the most beautiful baritone voices on the American stage. Silent Tait is known as the "Eccentric European Wizard." Prince and Virginia have a funny German sketch. Flan and Ford are two clever eccentric dancers.

The big dance attraction is Savanna and his troupe of Japs. They introduce two of the most beautiful Japanese children. Three performances are given, afternoon at 3; night 7:30 and 9 o'clock.

CARDS AND DANCING.

Made Annual Social Event of the Germans Most Enjoyable.

Liederkrantz Hall was the scene of a large and enjoyable social event last evening, when the annual ball of the German Liederkrantz Society was held. Only the members of the society, their wives and children were present and a general good time was had throughout the evening. This is a great event among the Germans, and is looked forward to with great interest by all members of the society. Every person present entered into the amusements of the evening, and this morning reported the event one of the greatest in the history of the society.

Card tables were arranged on the first floor for those who cared not to dance. The young people present adjourned to the second floor, where dancing was indulged in until a late hour. Refreshments were served at midnight. Over 40 couples were present. The committee in charge deserve much credit for the grand success of the merry event.

BUCKING DAYS.

Huns and Slaves Empty Pails of Water On Each Other Yesterday and Today.

There have been many foreigners ducked during the past two days, for it is the season of the year when the water is common custom they take a dip.

Yesterday the foreign men had their turn at ducking the girls, and today the maids are handing out the same dose. Yesterday the places where foreign girls worked were besieged with young men intent upon spotting the upper section of the anatomy with a pail of water, and today the girls are returning the favor.

Although it was boys' day yesterday, some of the foreign girls were wise enough to know that the fellows would not call voluntarily for their wetting today, and whenever they got a chance they emptied a pail of water over their heads.

HIGH SCHOOL.

Boys Will Play Uniontown Team at Marietta-Stillwagon Park on Saturday Next.

Manager Cober of the local High School base ball team has booked a game with the Uniontown High School for the coming Saturday at the Marietta-Stillwagon park.

As the High School so far holds the championship for this county over Uniontown in football, basketball and literary contests, the boys also expect to take them in tow in the line of baseball, and a very lively game is expected. Other games were been booked with Greensburg, Mt. Pleasant and California State Normal.

CHURCH GROWS.

Trinity Episcopal Congregation Had 55 Communicants Sunday.

The services at the Trinity Episcopal church Sunday morning were especially appropriate to Easter. Special music was beautifully rendered by the choir, while Easter lilies, hyacinths and jonquils formed the attractive decorations. Charles Gray is conductor of the choir; Miss Irene Brasher organist and Byron Porter violinist.

The services were largely attended. Fifty-five communicants were received at the morning service. Rev. Thomas Lloyd, pastor of the church, has done excellent work in the way of building up the congregation of the church since taking charge of his new pastorate.

The News of Nearby Towns.

MASONTOWN.

MASONTOWN April 20.—Cien C Sterling has been visiting friends in Pittsburgh and Greenbush, and is now back home again. She has a fine time when she goes visiting. Estate was observed by all the day, and was busily engaged during the forenoon and evening. In the evening many had an Easter entertainment. The Methodist had a very elaborate program and the audience was large. The women were very highly complimented. To the people who worked out this program and had it carried through so successfully, we extend a great deal of thanks. As it took a great deal of time to do this, but people do that kind of work when they always enjoy it and are always at home.

The Methodist collectors say they had a very busy day's traffic yesterday, as all the foreigners took advantage of the Easter exercises, in their different churches.

On Monday night Floating Theatre will be at Masontown Landing next Thursday evening. This is a very fine show boat, and is always very popular with the people. It will be in town Friday and Saturday, and will be a great attraction, party came out from Uniontown and walked down to the show. This year it will be more light and airy, and will be a good trip for those who have never attended a show in one of their homes that cost this one cost. The Market cost $2,000.

Robert W. Weller of McClellandtown was over and enjoyed the Easter exercises in Pittsburgh.

Miss W. O. White is in Pittsburgh again and visiting friends. She will remain there several days.

The Merry Wives hat has made its appearance in our town and it is certainly a great success.

It is prophesied that there will be a strike with the church-going people if they are not removed during pentecost.

The Yoncous Brothers will open a branch store in Monaca. They have a very heavy stock of goods now on hand and they feel that by dividing it up they will have plenty of goods for both stores.

Local A. Kall was in Pittsburgh last week, attending United States Court of Appeals against the Bewers, Conduits & Manufacturing Co., who did some business in our town about a year ago. Mr. Kall represented the laboring men who had claims against the company. The other officers of the company are among the people who created some noise about striking a great trolley system from Monaca to Uniontown. The Bewers company is in our town above Masontown, and they even graded the road bed for about 50 or 100 yards as proof that they meant business in order to get their franchise extended. They succeeded in it.

GETTING READY FOR THE COMING BOOM.

The announcement that the H. C. Frick Coke Company will spend over a million dollars in new construction and other improvements in the coke region this summer is positive evidence of the company's faith in our industrial future, and when it is remembered that the H. C. Frick Coke Company is a subsidiary corporation to the United States Steel Corporation, whose management is composed of the leading financiers of the country, it will be seen that this action reflects the best available judgment on the future prospects of business and industry.

Not only does it hold out bright hopes for the future, but it will in a large measure relieve the present depression in this immediate section by furnishing employment for a considerable portion of our idle labor and by quickening every artery of trade in Fayette county.

The coming summer promises to be reasonably prosperous in the coke region, with the reasonable prospect of a restoration of normal conditions after the Presidential election and the settlement of the tariff question.

There is no need to despair, but every reason for hope; but in the meantime, every man should try to fit his expenses to his income.

COLONEL BRYAN'S
POLITICAL ASSET.

"Political prominence is an asset in any kind of business," declares William Jennings Bryan, twice the nominee of the Democratic party for the Presidency and a third time candidate.

The accuracy of the statement will not be questioned. As a general observation, history amply confirms it. There are undoubtedly in private life men of greater worth, but there is a disposition to regard those who have been in the limelight of public favor, either through ability or accident, as men of superior mould; and they seldom lack for private employment after they have retired from the service of the state or have been honored by the leadership of parties great even if unsuccessful.

Some Democrats have wondered why Colonel Bryan insisted upon sitting in the driver's seat on the Democratic band wagon and holding on to the reins in spite of the established fact that he is a poor driver who always follows and never leads in the race for the White House. If such Democrats are simple, it is evident that the Peerless One is not. He has always had a just appreciation of the masses, political and otherwise.

There are indications of a Democratic awakening, however. Some of the intelligent members of that Has-Been organization are getting ready to protest at Denver against the party being the political asset of any individual, but their protest will perhaps prove to be too late. While it slept, Bryan has again captured enough of the delegates to make his nomination possible and even probable.

NOT CRUELTY
BUT PUBLIC DUTY.

The action of the municipal authorities in decreasing a wholesale slaughter of the canine population was not taken out of cruelty or malice, but from a sense of duty. The protection of the public from the dangers of hydrophobia is the first and highest responsibility resting upon those charged with the administration of the law. It may be said that there is no such danger actually existing, but that it portends is sufficient to justify the action of authority. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Aside from this supreme consideration, which outweighs all others and is in itself ample reason for the dog-slaying decree, there are others of lesser weight but not without some force.

The dog is a domestic animal, sometimes useful and at other times purely ornamental, but often vicious and destructive and even dangerous, without any saving virtues discoverable. They are common nuisances. Many of them are without acknowledged owners, while those who have masters are permitted by the latter to annoy the neighborhood in blissful disregard of the rights of citizens.

It is the duty of those charged with the administration of municipal government to remove this and all other dangers and nuisances that threaten the police are only doing their duty.

THE COLLECTION OF TAXES.

The School Board is engaged in the business of settling up the tax duplicates of 1904 and 1905, and in doing so have granted some substantial exemptions to the collectors; but the great bulk of such exonerations have been errors, and the record of Collector Brown at least shows painstaking effort on his part to gather in all the taxes.

The financial straits in which the school authorities find themselves would be removed if the uncollected taxes prior to the present year were in the school treasury, where they ought to be, instead of outstanding, where they have no business being.

The situation is not altogether the fault of the tax collectors, but chiefly of the custom that has been handed down to them from a remote period when prompt settlements were not the rule of business.

But the rule of business has been changed in the meantime, and there is no reason why the custom of paying taxes should not conform to ordinary business practices. The collectors can make it conform, and if they do not exert the proper effort in this direction the authorities have the power to stir them to greater activity.

RECKLESS AND MURDEROUS
USE OF FIREARMS.

Greenwood complains of stay bullets, and the complaint should be investigated. Too many owners of firearms are reckless in their discharge. The courts have taken a determined stand against the offense of carrying concealed weapons, and the effect of this attitude will doubtless be beneficial; but it is a question whether the country would not greatly profit by a general disarmament of the population, permitting only such persons to carry weapons under such reasonable restrictions as shall seem proper for the enforcement of law and the protection of the citizen in his person and property.

The difficulty of framing such an act is perhaps the only reason it has not long ago been passed. If possible, however, reckless and murderous persons should be deprived of firearms.

The operators and the authorities concern themselves about the safety of the miners, and the miners should do the same. They should be educated to themselves and the mines in which they work from accident by carefully observing the rules laid down for their safety. The miners should make the article on safety lamps and their uses, elsewhere printed in this issue, and the lesson should be carefully copied by every miner who reads The Courier.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTTDALE. April 21.—Yesterday the regulars and Yankees were pitted in an interesting game, and the Regulars were victorious at every stage of the game. The pitching staff was greatly strengthened yesterday and the outcome of the game was encouraging. Carr of the Hickory A. C. of Pittsburg looks good, as does also Ashenbaugh of the same place. The condition of the park grounds was ideal. Practice will continue twice a day until next Saturday, when they play an exhibition game, at which time the true worth of the respective players will be determined. Four hundred rods yesterday found unlimited joy in the novel sport of egg hunting which took place in Loucks park. Eggs of every variety and description were found, many prizes being among those unearthed. The boys, however, monopolized the sport, the little girls finding few of the eggs.

The Misses Mary and Alice Dillon of St. Joseph's Academy were the guests of the Misses Edna and Billie Byrnes.

The body of "Ike" Williams was claimed by his son from Uniontown and taken there yesterday morning.

W. S. Evans and wife were calling on friends here yesterday.

Quite a number of young people from here attended the dance and euchre in Mt. Pleasant last night.

Dr. McKee and Walter Tormay of Uniontown were in town yesterday calling on friends.

Andrew George and J. M. Doyle of Connellsville were business callers here yesterday.

M. Jackson and Otto Frey, Jr., of Pittsburg were here on business yesterday.

George C. Holcomb of McKeesport was in town yesterday.

Edward Pulls, East Liverpool, was a business caller here yesterday.

J. R. Emery of Baltimore was calling on friends here yesterday.

ANNIE LAURIE

Sung With Beautiful Effect by Beatrice Morello at Magic Land and Sister is Great Violinist.

Magic Land this week offers a short but a good one: Clark's comedy dogs and ponies are real winners. To traff these animals as they are trained must have cost an immense amount of time and a greater amount of patience. The little dogs perform so cleverly and perfectly that one cannot help but admire and applaud them. They are cleverer than any circus ever offered and more dainty and exciting. The act is a high class vaudeville one and well worth seeing.

But the really most artistic offering is the performance of the Minstrels. Beatrice Morello is presented as a prima donna contralto and she lives well up to her reputation in this line. Charlotte Morello is a violin virtuoso, clever, light and graceful of touch, bringing forth the melodies of the greatest of instruments. The rendition of a difficult violin solo by her proves her great ability and mastery of the instrument. Beatrice Morello, however, carries the audience away with her in her delicate, sweet rendition of "Bonnie Annie Laurie." Few soloists can render the pretty, sweet, heart-tugging song effectively, but Miss Morello sings it with sweet abandon, earnestness and pathos that rings true in every line and reaches out into the audience and gathers them together in a feeling of love. She sings her other songs well, but when she reaches this tuneful melody, never yet grown old but often poorly sung, she reaches the climax and there is a desire to hear more of her when she is in that mood.

Miss Florence Ruyfield, the new illustrated song singer, promises to become popular with her songs and the moving pictures this week are also entertaining.

Ladies Will Give Supper. The Ladies' Aid Society of the United Brethren church will give a chicken and biscuit supper in the church on Crawford avenue on Thursday evening. The hours will be, from 5 to 10 o'clock, and the ladies promise a good supper and pleasant company and chat during this time. Tickets cost 25 cents. Others than the members of the congregation are invited also.

The Lovers' Farewell in "The Clansman."

THE CLANSMAN.

Black Face Performers and Pretty Girls in Striking Scenes. Among the prominent actors in "The Clansman" cast, at the Solsken Theatre, Friday, April 26, is the inimitable Barry Maxwell as the faithful Uncle Neese. This actor for 20 years has been recognized as one of the leading negro delineators on the American stage. He went to London as a member of the original Haydene Minstrels, who electrified England with their exposition of Ethiopian song, jest and dance, and has returned thither as the darky butler in "The Clansman" will be an important dramatic event. Everybody knows Barry Maxwell. Thousands have roared over his antics as Sassafras in "The County Chairman." Many thousands more have a loving remembrance of him in the Charles H. Hoyt comedies. The mention of his minister to Doheny in "A Texas Steer," Othello with "A Contented Woman," Ben Gay in "A Trip to Chinatown," and the Tramp in "A Hole in the Ground," is sufficient to provoke broad smiles. He was also a stellar performer with Lew Dickey's minstrels, Old John in Bartley Campbell's "The White Slave," Pete in "The Orient," Clem in "Nevada," with Elsie Ryan; in fact, there has hardly been a bit of clever darky characterization on the stage for the last quarter of a century with which Maxwell has not been prominently identified. In Uncle Neese he finds what is probably the most unctuous negro role of his whole career. Maxwell's deftness in portraying the peculiarly Southern type of negro will stand him in good stead. He was born and reared in New Orleans and knows and loves the good old traditional ante-bellum darky like Neese in the play.

There is a peculiar appropriateness in the choice of Miss Ruth Hart to play Nellie Graham, for on her mother's side she is a member of the South Klux messenger, for on her mother's side she is a member of the South Carolina family pictured in "The Clansman" as the Grahams. The real name of the Graham clan is McDonald and they are very prominent in the Piedmont section of the State.

DIXIE MINSTRELS.

They Will Offer An Olio of Special Novelties at The Solsken. Dixie Minstrels. Quite the most pretentious aggregation of colored performers ever on tour will be seen with the Dandy Dixie Minstrels on Saturday, April 25, at the Solsken Theatre. Besides "Laughing Lauer," whose inimitable monologue and parades entertained thousands of theatre-goers on the New York Roof Garden last summer, the Dandy Dixie Minstrels offer an olio of specially engaged novelties, a part of which is a stunning spectacular effect, an afterpiece of furiously funny force, "A Fowl Deed," and the famous matchless musical musicians, the Cotton Pickers' Band. Traveling in their $20,000 Pullman palace car, "The Dandy," this magnificent melange of minstrelsy will tour the world, after visiting every important city in the United States and Canada.

Among the all-star performers are James Croshy, the tall comic; Williams and Stevens, comic impersonators; Monroe Talen, the silver-voiced tenor; Peaches the aerial wire walker; Buddy Jones, pickaninnies dancing, swirling, and 40 other headline singers, dancers and merry minstrel men.

Says Paint Fired House. Jacob Brickman today made a statement concerning the recent fire on the piazza when the stable in the rear of his house burned. He says: "I had some paint in the stable, and as there was no other means by which the stable could have taken fire, I am of the opinion that the ingredients of the paint caused the blaze."

HERE'S THE PROOF

Read: If You Are a Sufferer From Catarrh, Reason and Reflect.

"My wife and I will swear that Hyomei cured me of the worst case of catarrh that ever existed. I used to cough constantly at night, and had a dropping in the throat which kept me awake a great deal. I raised thick phlegm and was in a horrible condition. However, I am entirely cured solely through the use of Hyomei." Dr. Philip Z. Hart, Luconia, N. H.

Reader, this is one of the thousands of testimonials praising the marvelous curative power of Hyomei. If you are a sufferer, why not try it? A. A. Clarke guarantees it and will refund your money if it fails to cure. Hyomei is not a stomach nostrum; it is dry antiseptic and medicated air, and all you have to do to cure any disease of the nose, throat or lungs, is to breathe it in through the Hyomei inhaler. A Hyomei outfit, including a scientific inhaler, only costs $1.00. Get one today. Subsequent treatment is only 50 cents a bottle. Get one now. A. A. Clarke takes all the risk. He guarantees it.

It is not often that Manager Fred Robbing says anything from the stage of the Sisson Theatre, but he was a part of the vaudeville show yesterday afternoon, and his announcement was the feature of the bill.

The little Japanese artiste had just gotten done twirling barrels and boxes on their toes, when he took his place before the curtain, and made a little speech that brought a round of applause.

He said he had just returned from New York, where he had gone to gather in the best vaudeville shows in the United States today, to perform on the local stage during the spring and summer months. "This is the best theatre town in the country," he said, "for shows of the higher or class, good, moral, clean bills in which agility and cleverness takes the place of vulgar commonplace. The theatre will be kept cool and comfortable during the summer months and the shows will be of a class never before put on here. I believe the audiences will be large enough to support such troupe."

NEWS OF SCOTTDALE.

Managers of the Base Ball Team Hold a Meeting Behind Closed Doors.

MILL TOWN PERSONAL NOTES.

Curios and Gosses and Bits of the Fly- ing News Supplied by Our Special Correspondent for Westmoreland County Readers.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, April 22.—The officials of the ball team held a meeting behind closed doors, and although the purpose was latent it is said that the stringency in money matters would be discussed and they who were to be invested with the insignia of the clan were to receive marked attention. An undercurrent of sentiment antagonistic to the present progress of the team is in evidence and the anvil artists are working overtime. It is thought that tonight's meeting will develop a manager who will assume full control and responsibility for the team's future. A notable feature of this year's players is their apparent versatility, almost every man on the team professing to play various positions.

Quite a number of coal men are here to take the examination for mine foremen and the examinations are said to be far more difficult than in previous years, when experience in and around mines was rated as the only requisite.

A communication was read from the Bell Telephone Company, stating that it had made satisfactory arrangement with the Directors of the Second National Bank relative to the removal of the telephone poles along North Pittsburg street, between Main and Orchard alleys.

B. P. Wallace called the Council's attention to the contract of the bor- ough with the Connellsville Water Company, which expires April 30, and asked that one citizen be appointed by the President to "take in the matter according to the contract." Councilman Stillwagon said that a competent man had been appointed and he had reported adversely on the purchase, and he did not see the use in incurring additional ex- pense as the matter now stood. Mr. Wallace further asked that the citizen appointed be empowered to employ counsel. This brought on a sharp de- bate until Mr. Wallace stated that the procedure was to be without expense. Mr. Stillwagon stated that Mr. Kilpatrick in his investigations had em- ployed one of the best lawyers in the country, but Mr. Wallace said that he had employed a water company attorney and did not know it until after he had consulted him and secured his opinion. Mr. Stillwagon asked that Mr. Kilpatrick's report, made some years ago be read to the Council. He was deferred until the next meeting on account of the time it would re- quire to find the document in the minute book. A vote resulted in the President being empowered to appoint a citizen and Mr. Kilpatrick was again appointed.

HOUSE IS SURPRISED

McCall Bill Requiring Publicity of Campaign Contributions Favorably Reported

DEMOCRATS ALL SUPPORT IT

Representative Sims of Tennessee Reads Letter From Secretary Loeb and Senator Newlands Regarding Stock Held in Railway Company.

Washington, April 22.—The McCall campaign publicity bill was unanimously recommended to the house for passage by the committee on election of president, vice president and representatives in congress. Though introduced by a Republican, the bill had the undivided support of the Democratic members of the committee and also of the national publicity law organization. It was the subject of much spirited discussion in the committee, and the action in recommending the bill for passage caused jubilation among the majority in the house and some surprise on the Republican side, the Republican chairman, Mr. Gaines of West Virginia, having previously expressed himself as opposed to some of the chief provisions of the measure.

The bill provides that "all contributions heretofore made to political committees engaged in promoting the election of representatives or delegates to the congress of the United States or of presidential electors at any election at which representatives or delegates shall be voted for shall be reported by such committees to the clerk of the house of representatives."

The bill was so amended that any person may, in connection with such election, pay from his own private funds for the purpose of influencing or controlling two or more states the result of an election at which representatives in congress are to be elected, all his traveling expenses. The provision allowing him to pay "for writing, printing, preparing and circulating any letter, circular or other publication whereby he may state his position or views upon any question" was stricken out. He may, however, pay for stationery and postage and telegraph and telephone service without being subject to the provisions of the act. The clause providing that "nothing in this act shall apply to any committee or organization for the discussion or advancement of political questions or principles without connection with any such election" also was stricken out.

Interest in the proceedings attached to a letter from Secretary Loeb to Mr. Sims of Tennessee, asserting that the 4,700 shares of Washington street railway stock in his name were exempt from 100 shares, belonged to others and denying that he had in any manner exerted the influence of his official position on behalf of the company of which he was a director. The unnamed senator, also referred to by Mr. Sims and who is Senator Newlands of Nevada, sent a similar communication, declaring that the stock in his name was simply held as trustee and that he had never participated in legislation relating to the street railways of Washington.

Notwithstanding the fact that the senate is said to be opposed to any increase in the house program for the building of two battleships, an effort will be made to double that number. Senator Piles of Washington has prepared an amendment to the naval appropriation bill providing for the construction of four ships in accordance with the recommendations of President Roosevelt. This amendment will be offered, unless there is a change of plan, when the bill is taken up today. It is said that there will be votes for the amendment on both sides of the chamber, but just what strength will be developed for the increase cannot now be ascertained.

Calling attention to the Grand Army button he wore on the lapel of his coat and insisting that he had no prejudice against negro soldiers, some of whom he claimed as comrades, Senator Warner of Missouri in the senate declared his conviction that the town of Brownsville, Tex., had been shot up by negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth regiment in 1906. Mr. Warner quoted extensively from the testimony taken in the Brownsville case and presented an argument to sustain his belief in the guilt of the negro soldiers. Without concluding his remarks, Mr. Warner gave way for the naval appropriation bill, which was read in part. An amendment was adopted making the 40 per cent increase in the pay of officers apply to those retired as well as to those on the active list. In connection with the consideration of the naval bill the senate entered into a long discussion of the policy of sending the naval fleet around the world. This policy was sharply criticized by Senator Bacon.

As a result of an opinion rendered to the president by Attorney General Bonaparte at the cabinet meeting it is believed that the president will sign the employers' liability bill.

Girl Kills Self With Shotgun. Sharon, Pa., April 22.—Jessie Schlesinger, age twenty-two, formerly a schoolteacher, committed suicide by shooting herself in the head with a shotgun. She left a letter asking for forgiveness and stated that she was tired of life. She had been melancholy since the death of her father.

BATON MEN MEET
Anti-Guffey Faction Map Out Plan of Campaign.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 22.—The executive committee of the Pennsylvania Bryan league met here and Assistant Secretary Vandike issued a statement that "two-thirds of the national delegates elected April 11 were either pledged or instructed for Bryan" and that "the Bryan men will absolutely control the state convention." No figures or list of delegates were issued.

The committee met behind closed doors twenty-three members of the committee or their proxies being present. The session was devoted chiefly to hearing reports of delegate elections and to discussion of plans for the coming state convention on May 20. Resolutions were adopted that the Bryan league will support only men known to favor the nomination of Bryan for delegates-at-large. Resolutions were also adopted and signed by President Jere S. Black, Vice President R. S. Morris, Treasurer W. H. Berry, Secretary Warren Worth Bailey and all of the members of the committee, including those absent, that in view of the alleged reports that Pennsylvania will send an unstructured delegation to Denver it was the sense of the league that "two-thirds of the delegates elected were pledged to Bryan"; that it is "an insult to the voters of the state and to the men pledged to Bryan to have these false and misleading reports circulated"; and that the league "challenges these reports as without actual foundation, as intended to dupe" and denouncing them as "an outrage on the party and as a most amazing evidence of the readiness of those responsible for them to discredit majority rule, to disregard the will of the majority and to set up personal rule in its place."

There were present four delegates to the Denver convention: Jere S. Black, York; J. C. Dinn, Huntingdon; Joseph Howley, Pittsburgh; and R. E. Creswell, Johnston.

CALL FOR RELIEF

Representatives of 774 Newspapers Ask Congress to Take Action.

New York, April 22.—The annual meeting of the Associated Press was held at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel with an exceptionally large attendance of members from every section of the country. Aside from the transaction of purely routine business affecting the organization, the most important action taken was the presentation and adoption of an address asking the president and the congress to "grant immediate relief from the exactions of combinations of paper makers." The address as adopted is as follows:

"Representatives of 774 daily newspapers respectfully ask the president and congress to grant immediate relief from the exactions of combinations of papermakers. In September, 1907, and again in November, 1907, the attention of the authorities was directed to the excessive prices then demanded by the paper combination. Immediately upon the assembling of congress twenty or more bills aiming to correct these conditions and to put paper and pulp on the free list were introduced and referred to the ways and means committee. Persistent efforts to obtain a hearing have been refused. Dilatory tactics have been employed to prolong present conditions and to carry over to another session of congress every proposition designed for relief. All newspapers here represented protest against delay."

The Associated Press and the American Newspaper Publishers' association will sit down to a joint banquet tonight at the Waldorf-Astoria, at which William J. Bryan will be the chief speaker.

INSIDES ALL MIXED

Autopsy on Judge Started. Surgeons of Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Baltimore, April 22.—Surgeons in Johns Hopkins hospital during an autopsy on the body of Judge John E. McKeighan of St. Louis were astonished to discover that instead of the usual setting of the organs, those in the body were scattered about in almost, unbelievable ways. His heart was turned in a position the reverse of normal, his kidneys were united by a ligament in the shape of a horse-shoe and the liver was upside down with the gall bladder on top. Many of the smaller organs were a chaos of entangled cords and fatty substances.

Judge McKeighan lived with such a strange transposition of the organs of his body appear marvelous. Surgeons are mystified at it. Whether he was born with his organs in abnormal positions or they were put in this state through disease or some freak of nature is not known.

Judge McKeighan lived to be sixty-six years old and was considered one of the ablest lawyers of St. Louis. He became seriously ill in St. Louis in unable to find any physicians who would go to the Johns Hopkins hospital in March, in which an operation was performed, during which discoveries were made of such a startling nature that he consented to an autopsy.

Boy Attacked by Wolf.

Washington, Pa., April 22.—John Hathaway, eighty-seven-year-old son of Mrs. Mary Hathaway of Carmichaels, Greene county, was attacked by a prairie wolf chained in a stable at the rear of the Hathaway home and but for the timely assistance of James Curt, a neighbor, the lad would have been devoured. The child's body was terribly lacerated.

Lightning Kills an Angler. Galveston, Tex., April 22.—Dr. Wallace House, age thirty-six, lecturer and demonstrator at the medical college of Texas university, was killed by lightning while fishing.

SIDE WITH STRIKERS

CARS CARRY NO PASSENGERS

State Police Still on Duty But Disorder Has Ceased—Strikers Operate Bus Line in Competition With Cars Manned by Non-Union Men.

Chester, Pa., April 22.—Carrying no passengers, cars manned by non-union men are running on all of the lines of the Chester traction company, the employees of which have been on strike for more than a week. The cars were not accompanied by details of the state police, as the strikers and their sympathizers are not molesting the crews. The strikers are advocating a boycott, and some of them have buses in operation in competition with the company. The cars are manned by non-union men, two on the rear platform and the others on the front. The state police are patrolling the streets.

Both branches of city councils met and the traction company was severely criticized. Councils lauded the local police for their efficient service and blamed the traction company for the present condition of affairs. Councils approved a message of Mayor Johnson, which complimented the strikers, citizens and police for their "peaceable behavior during the trying circumstances of the past week." Resolutions were adopted which may mean an expenditure of nearly $100,000 by the traction company for municipal improvements along their lines.

The non-union crew of one of the cars of the company was arrested by the local police charged with ignoring a city ordinance in not ringing the gong of the car when approaching a street crossing. The crew will be given a hearing later.

Three Drown When Raft Upsets. Shawnee, Okla., April 22.—John Swisher, Andrew Coats and Barney Callahan were drowned in the Canadian river by the capsizing of a raft on which they were making the journey to Fort Smith. The men had a liberal supply of liquor.

WISHED TO ADOPT THIEF

Boy Pickpocket Makes Hit With One of His Victims.

Pittsburg, April 22.—Indignant that "a mere kid could turn the trick on her," Mrs. Strickler, a well-known society woman of the Northside, called at central police station to identify the fat pickpocket which thirteen-year-old George Cupp, Pittsburg's champion juvenile pickpocket, was accused of having stolen from her and to prefer a charge against the lad. The turnkey took Mrs. Strickler into the cell room to identify the lad.

"That's the boy!" she exclaimed as she caught sight of him, and then the elegantly dressed woman ignored just a moment to talk to the trich.

Five minutes later Mrs. Strickler reappeared in Magistrate Brady's office. There were tears in her eyes.

"I can't send a dear little fellow like that to jail," she almost wept. "I'll not prefer any charge, but if you will give him to me I will adopt him. Let me have him to me."

Nobody could persuade her to prefer a charge against the lad, and the magistrate finally committed him to the juvenile court while Mrs. Strickler left.

"Just leave him in his cell—don't bring him before me," said magistrate Brady. "He might make a hit with me."

CHAPTER XIV.

THE first committee room that lay to the right of Horrigan's office—in the same relation to it as the antechamber to the left—was usually given over to dry official business, and its musty walls must almost have experienced a distinct shock from this time as Dallas Walnwright entered from the corridor behind. She was accompanied by Perry and by Phelan, who, passing through the corridor toward the aldermanic chamber, had collided with the brother and sister at the committee room door. "Here's a good sight, for sore eyes, Miss Walnwright," the alderman was saying with his best air. "But is it fair to ask what brings such a bunch of sunshines into an old political shell like this? I'd as soon think of seeing Horrigan at mass as to find you here."

"I want to attend the aldermanic meeting," exclaimed Dallas. "I have a special reason." So I made Perry bring me. But at the door they to us the gallery was so crowded that we couldn't."

"Never you mind the gallery, miss," interrupted Phelan. "It's just time for the likes of you anyway. We just sit here a few minutes, and I catch an attendant somewhere and make him hustle up a couple of good chairs for you on the main floor, where you can pipe everything just like you were in your own opéra box cappin' off a swad of high-class."

"Thank you so much, alderman," replied Dallas. "I hope we're not putting you to too much trouble."

"No trouble at all. An' exp' if it was P. D. come runnin' to meet it. I'm the original trouble enter. Besides, the best in the house is home too good for the lady who was so interested in my meetings. So long! I'll be right back."

"What a queer chap he is!" mused Perry, as Phelan hastened away on his mission. "If I could take a six weeks' course in piping and hot air from that man I'd be able to sew buttons on the whole English language."

"I don't think you need very much education," observed Dallas. "But it was kind of Mr. Phelan to look after us. I like him."

"Because he's standin' by Bennett pluckily in this fight."

"Mr. Bennett is standin' to me."

"Not," asked Perry, in an innocent manner. "Then I wanted a lot of good citizens monin' cubbin' to you about his campaign when you were across the big wash last summer. For a man who was 'nothing' to you you sure took large swads of intelligent interest. Look here, little girl," he went on, less sappily, "what's the matter? Has anything?"

"No," she broke in, with a miserable effort at courage. "Nothing's the matter. I'm perfectly happy. Why shouldn't I be? An engaged girl is always!"

"As engaged girl!" he shouted in high glee. "You don't mean to say you and Alwyn?"

"Of course not. I am engaged to Mr. Gibbs."

"Good Lord!" gasped Perry, in honest dismay. "If that's meant for a joke, it's the peakest ever! Did?"

"It isn't a joke, Perry, and it's very rude of you to talk so. I am engaged to Mr. Gibbs, and—"

"But—how when did the strictly come on, and—"

"I became engaged to him the night of the administration ball. I didn't want to tell you 'yes' yet, because I knew you don't like him. I'm—I'm—"

"You're happy?"

"Certainly I am," she retorted deistically. "So happy that I—"

"That you are having a fight to keep from crying this blessed minute?" he snorted. "Say, Dallas, it breaks me up to have you up in a tizzy."

"But," protested her uncle disapprovingly, "it is hardly the sort of—"

"My fortune and Perry's are that of the man I am to marry are all bound up in the Borough bill," she answered fearlessly. "I have a right to be present when that bill's fate is decided."

"Good nerve!" applauded Horrigan.

"You're a thoroughbred. If there were more women like you!"

"Mr. Horrigan," reported Williams, hurrying in from an antechamber, "the police have come, and—"

"All right," answered the boss. "Give the sergeant his orders."

"I hardly like the responsibility," mused Williams; "and—"

"But you'll take it. I'm backin' you. By the way, get seats for Miss Walnwright and her brother. Get them close to the anteroom door, so if there's a row she can come back here. Clear a couple of people out and make room for—"

"But we have seats," protested Dallas, as Williams sped on his errand.

"I didn't know."

"I've got two good seats for you," announced Phelan. "Right where you can see an' hear the whole shootin' match. An' I guess before the meetin's over it's liable to get as interestin' as a double 'Uncle Tom' show in a tent. I'll show you the way as soon as you're ready. There's no rush. Things ain't begun to sizzle up yet."

Bennett had crossed to where Dallas stood irresolute and, under cover of Phelan's talk with Perry, said to her, with a certain unconscious stiffness:

"I fear I was too taken aback by your announcement the other evening to remember to congratulate you, but please believe me when I say I wish you every happiness in the new life you have chosen."

"Thank you, very much," faltered Dallas.

There was an awkward pause; then she said:

"You came in here to write something. I'm afraid we're detainin' you. You must be busy with your fight against the Borough bill. You are quite determined to continue it to the end?"

"To the bitter end!" he answered miserably. "Even though that old can hold nothing but bitterness for me."

The set anguish in his face moved Dallas more than she dared confess to herself.

"I am sorry," she said softly.

"I fear I have chosen this time as Dallas Walnwright's to be a little bit of a bane to her. And when the police have hummed a little song into folks' heads with their nightsticks, the victim will begin to understand just what sort of a man Alwyn Bennett is. Remember now, Gibbs, and you, too, young Walnwright, if there's any sign of a row bring Miss Walnwright back here at once!"

"All right," agreed Perry, a little rueful at the prospect of missing a free fight. "Let's go in there now. I've never been to an alderman's meeting before, but I can run against a car strike race once, so I guess I'm on to most of the subtle rules of elegance that govern such shows. Come on, people, if you're comin'."

"Your place is a thoroughbred," repeated Horrigan, with rare approbation, as the unbroken door closed behind Perry and me of my own fortune. "I want to enrich your self by selling Borough stock short and then vetoing the bill so that the stock would collapse. You have done all this, and yet you talk of following a sometim'e course to the end!"

"Dallas," he said very quietly, "you refused to trust me to explain, so I thought you said you had a course to the end?"

"Dallas," he said very quietly, "you don't understand."

"Dallas," he said very quietly, "you may say no more. But one day you may learn the cruel mistake you are makin'."

"Dallas?"

"I don't mean that you are mistaken in choosing Gibbs instead of me, but that you are wrong in your judgment of what I am doing. I hope you will understand some day. It will be too late to change anything then, but at least I shall be set right in your eyes. And that means more to me than you can ever know. Goodby."

He left the room abruptly, and Dallas stared after him, her brain abuzz with conflicting thoughts.

"There's a man in ten million, miss," volunteered Phelan, breaking in on her reverie, "in' from the looks of that man's new dicky, three-kick spark on your finger I guess you're wise to the fact."

"I am engaged to Mr. Gibbs," replied Dallas coldly.

"What?" gasped Phelan, checking himself just in time. "I'm sure sorry for you, miss," he went on, with a shiver that precluded any effusion, "for friend Gibbs is going to have something so heavy fall on his bank roll by the time we're through with this Borough bill that he'll be able to use his wad for a book mark without crinklin' any of the leaves. Why, he'll—"

"Come, Perry," interrupted Dallas. "Shall we go to the meeting now?"

Confused, she turned to the door leading into Horrigan's room instead of the opening on the corridor and found herself face to face with her boss and Gibbs.

"I understand there's a full meeting today. Even Gibbs' come back from the south to be here. You're the only man missing."

"I couldn't get here sooner. I—"

"I see. That's all, Williams. You needn't wait. Roberts and I want a little talk before he goes in. Now, then," went on the boss, with a complete change of manner as Williams left the room, "what's the matter with you?"

"I can't—"

"Can't what? Speak out, man! Don't stand there and mumble at me!"

"I can't vote for the Borough franchise," she retorted.

"It is hardly the sort of—"

"My fortune and Perry's are that of the man I am to marry are all bound up in the Borough bill," she answered fearlessly. "I have a right to be present when that bill's fate is decided."
